

Charles Halka is a Pacific Northwest-based and internationally performed composer of acoustic and electronic music for concert, dance, and opera. He teaches composition at Western Washington University.